ECUADANE

A COMPANY WITH CONSCIENCE

SO YOU CAN GIFT WITH CONFIDENCE

WOMAN-OWNED AND FAMILY-FOCUSED: As a woman-owned business, we empower our team and communities by supporting families, equality and prioritizing work-life balance, fostering personal and professional growth.

COMMITMENT TO SUSTAINABILITY: We source alpaca, cashmere, wool, and green cotton from sustainable suppliers with over 25% of our modacrylic materials recycled and a goal of reaching 100% recycled very soon.

HYPOTOLERANT AND HIGH-PERFORMANCE MODACRYLIC: Our modacrylic blankets offer exceptional comfort, durability, heat retention, and moisture-wicking, but most importantly, it's hypoallergenic—making them a safe choice for those with natural fiber allergies.

SUPPORTING LOCAL ARTISANS: Our artisans in Ecuador, Peru, and Ireland craft blankets as part of their cultural traditions. Made in small batches, these blankets are daily essentials, and we proudly honor their significance.

Honeymoon Place

In 1810, the Chumash people called the land now known as the Alisal Ranch "Nojoqui," or "Honeymoon Place."

The Alisal Ranch, located near Solvang in California's Santa Ynez Valley, is a 10,000-acre guest and working cattle ranch with a rich history. Once part of the 13,000-acre Rancho Nojoqui granted to Raimundo Carrillo in 1843, it thrived during the Gold Rush as cattle became a key food source. After changing hands multiple times, it was bought by H.W. Pierce in 1868, renamed Alisal, and later acquired by Charles Perkins in 1927, who also raised racehorses. The guest ranch opened in 1946 and became a celebrity retreat. Today, Alisal offers rustic accommodations and numerous outdoor activities.
